

October 20, 2010

National Public Radio (NPR) has featured China's trade policies in a recent show. Note that in the transcript, tungsten is erroneously used as an example of a rare earth metal. Tungsten is an important technology metal that China controls as well.

Transcript:

<http://www.npr.org/templates/transcript/transcript.php?storyId=130704695>

Related article:

<http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=130704695>